

Radford Homes Awarded Environmental Conservation Award

Mountain Homes Southern Style magazine in conjunction with Friends of the Blue Ridge Parkway has awarded Radford Homes the 1st annual Environmental Conservation Award for Outstanding Work in Maintaining Our Southern Mountains for their careful development of their new homes development, Mason's Crest.

Noting Radford Homes' earlier award of Best Preservation of Scenic Viewshed from Scenic Virginia in 2004, Mountain Homes magazine and Friends of the Blue Ridge Parkway commend the builder for developing one of the area's first "Dark Sky" communities. Mason's Crest is designed to protect the parkway's beauty by alleviating the area's onsite light pollution. This upscale community has no exposed floodlights or bulbs and no streetlights past its entrance.

In keeping with its motto, "In Harmony with Nature and the Blue Ridge Parkway", Mason's Crest exterior materials and colors blend in with its natural surroundings. Radford Homes has designated three miles of walking trails for homeowners to enjoy the local flora and fauna and the company has also provided 100 trees that were planted elsewhere along the Blue Ridge Parkway to enhance its beauty.
